Anthony Steinhauser,

(Residence opposite Indiana Hotel, Jasper.)

HAS a large stock of Dry Goods, Groceries and Notions, which he is desirous of peddling out on the principle of "small profits and quick sales." He gives below some of his prices, and invites those who wish to buy, to call on him at his home, or stop his wagon, when in motion. All kinds of product taken in exchange for goods.

Fight for the Nigger.

TUNE—"WAIT FOR THE WAGON."

I calculate of darkeys we soon shall have our fill,

With Abe's Proclamation and the bigger Army bill;

Who would not be a soldier, for the Union to fight!

Now Abe's made the nigger the equal of the white.

Chorus.—Fight for the nigger,

The wooly headed nigger,
That sweet-scened nigger,
And the Abolition crew.

Each nigger must be loyal, and his officers vivify,

Though he lives on mouldy biscuit, and Fights without pay;

If his wife at home be starving, he must not be discontented,

Though he waits six months for greenbacks worth 25 per cent.

Chorus,

Moreover, if you're drafted, do not refuse to go;

You are equal to a nigger, and can make as good a show;

And when you are in battle, to the Union be true;

But don't forget the darkey is as good a man as you.

Chorus.

If ordered into battle, go in without delay.

They slaughtered just like cattle, it's your duty to obey;

For when old Jeff is captured, perhaps paid you may be;

If you don't mind the money, only set the nigger free.

Chorus.

Three cheers for honest Abe, he will be a great man yet,

Though he loaded us with taxes and burdened us with debt;

He overrules us, kills jakes, while pocketing our mite;

And the law be made the nigger the equal of himself.

Chorus.

Gained well well the Constitution, the Guy engaged and Laws,

To every act of Congress don't forget to give applause;

And when you meet the rebels, be sure and drive them back;

Tho' you enslave the white man, you must liberate the black.

Chorus.

Speeches at Brownstown.

MCDONALD'S EVENING SPEECH.

Mr. McDonald opened. After stating the order of discussion agreed upon he enjoined upon the audience to preserve good order, that they might hear and determine for themselves. In the large crowds at the north the heat of order had been maintained, and he was sure that the same could be said hereafter of this meeting. At the close of some of the meetings some of the newspaper correspondents from Cincinnati had telegraphed in hot haste to their papers that he (McDonald) was about to abandon the contest. He was not in the habit of paying much attention to curios barked at his heels, but he deemed it right to caution his friends against such rumors, however said by whoever stated. He had determined to fight it out on this line if it takes all summer.

He proposed first to comment on the acts characterizing the administration of Governor Morton—or rather he should say

Lieutenant Governor Morton, for he understood that the Governor's friends claimed that he had never been anything more than Lieutenant Governor of Indiana.

He then reviewed the financial policy of the Governor with the same arguments, but more compactly stated, as those used heretofore. He asked Governor Morton now, as he had asked him at Laporte, how the $250,000 borrowed in the East was obtained—on what kind of vouchers, and what kind of receipts he gave for it. It was the right of the people to know.

On last Monday the Democratic State

Central Committee published an address to the people, and Governor Morton this morning issued a proclamation about it. He read the address, as it was short. Governor Morton had thought proper to stigmatize this as a revolutionary document. He was not able to see it in this light. It was only the exercise of the people's desire to proserve the purity of the ballot-box. The Governor says they shall have a fair election. He was glad to hear it. But when Gov. Morton asserted that nothing had transpired to create apprehension, he
